Get Restaurant Reviews on your Desktop

SUNNYVALE, Calif., January 2, 2006 – RatingzSM Inc. announced today the RestaurantRatingz Widget, a free software component for Macintosh and Windows computers that provides access to the RestaurantRatingz database of restaurant reviews. The database contains 40,000 customer-written reviews for restaurants throughout the United States. The reviews include numeric ratings for food, ambience, and service, information on type of food and prices, and customer comments.

Users of the widget can browse and read reviews, or they can click a link to access the RestaurantRatingz.com (<http://www.restaurantratingz.com>) website, where they can post their own reviews, and even add restaurants to the database. There is no sign-up required, and both the widget and the website are free to use.

The widget can be downloaded from <http://inertron.com/widgets/>. There are versions available for the Mac OS 10.4 Dashboard, and for the Yahoo! Widget Engine (formerly Konfabulator) on both Macintosh and Windows. The widget was developed by Inertron Software, and is distributed by Ratingz Inc. (<http://www.ratingz.net>), the Internet consumer ratings company.

The RestaurantRatingz.com website was launched in July, 2005, to provide a place where consumers could review and read about restaurants in their communities. The site is also useful for restaurant owners, who gain valuable customer feedback.
